DENTS IN HONGKONG The following lotter has been addressed to the Specialis by Sir Elmund Hornby, late Her Majesty's Chief Judgo for China and Japan :-In aparagraph in the Speciator of last week CARITAL (Fully Paid up);
you drive attention to the action of Mr. Pope PERMANENT RESERVE Honnord with reference to the Hongkong jail, SPECIAL RESERVE FUND in which you allow an inference to be drawn by the British public that the foreign residents of TOTAL and Houring look with favour on a system of prison discipling which is crueland unnecessary towards Chines prisoners. I am not going to pronounce my opinion on the course pursued by the Governor because I do not know sufficiently the facts on which he has been, or is noting but I think you are a little hard upon the colonists. During the twolve mark I noted as Her Majesty's Chief Judge for China and Japan J had frequent opportunities; and indeed made it my business; to inquire into the management and discipline of the colonial jail, as antil the completion of the mainland by British authority had to be sent to Hongkong, there to undergo their several terms of impresement. Ut became therefore my duty to lookinto the discipline of the place in which they were confined, and I did so, always once a year, and frequently more often.

While the juil was under the charge of the late Mr. Donglas I had only one complaint to make, and that in the direction of over-leniency; in this way I hought he erred, in common with the visiting magistrator, residents in the island, most of the thom being merchants. It struck mo that, as regards the Chinese prisoners, their confinement was made rather too comfortable and that the prison was likely to become a place of rather too fevourite resort; in other words, the prisoners were so well treated that their confinement almost ceased to be o punishment. Your table of figures might seem conclusive to any one who did not know the character of the criminal population of Houstony. The lower class of Chinese who inhabit the colony, and who flee to it from the mainland; are amongst the most dangerous, percomparison with that committed in any other upon Insurance effected with this Company. part of the world; while the difficulty of detecion and bringing offenders to justice is almost beyond belief, as the more respectable Chinese terror exercised over them by the gangs of ruffians living in their midst. Perhaps you will be asto take a walk across the island alone even in with terrible and ernal violence, are of common occurrence in the streets. The offences against prison discipline of which the perpetrators of these offices are guilty during their confinement. are such as, in my humble judgment, can only be punished or checked by severe corporal punish. ment; and although it ought not to be administeral except with due precaution against excessive severity and danger to life, I am certain that it will be impossible to maintain the hopesary amount of discipline without it: As to expecting that Chinese turnkeys will, in the consequences that may ensue to them, do their futy; I simply do not expect anything of Hongkong, 27th June, 1872. the kind; but of this I am certain, that so far as the foreign residents of Hongkong are concerned, it is to feeling of inhumanity, or careless disregard of how Chinese criminals are treated which induces them to forward complaints to London on the subject of the changes introduced

It requires a very stiff upper lip and the exproise of most unpleasant firmness to maintain proper discipling amongst the ruffians who by accident, rather than by the hand of justice, fine their way into Hongkong Jail I trust, Sir, I am as humane as most men, but an experience of twenty years has convinced me that in countries where no rational system of education exists. and where the object of native society seems from for or other motive, to be to screen criminals, ather than aid in bringing them to justice, continuatal notions as to corporal punishment or the particular place where it should be inflicted are altogether out of place.
